11 August 2020

BEACON MINERALS EXPLORATION UPATE

Highlights

- 15,300 metres of RC and Air Core Drilling programmes planned to test near-mine priority targets
- Drilling expected to begin this month

Beacon Minerals Limited (ASX:BCN) is pleased to advise that the Company will be focusing its exploration activities on Beacon’s tenements that are close to the 100% owned Jaurdi Gold Project.

Exploration Activities

Following the recent round of resource definition drilling at the Lost Dog and Panther pits Beacon will now move to a near mine exploration phase for the foreseeable future.

Since Beacon acquired the initial Lost Dog tenement it has put together a significant contiguous package of tenements (Figure 1) that contain a number of promising exploration targets.

The exploration targets have been generated via traditional exploration techniques, including:

- the review of historical records;
- geochemistry;
- geophysics;
- structural mapping; and
- The CSIRO report (“Characterising the gold mineralogy and geochemistry in silcrete over the Lost Dog paleochannel sediments: Jaurdi Hills Gold Project”) commissioned by Beacon in relation to the potential genesis of the Lost Dog orebody.

A summary of the initial targets is tabulated below:

Target Name/Description	Tenement	Drilling Technique	Estimated Metres
Black Cat South Res Def.	M16/34	Reverse Circulation	2,000
Golden Cat Alluvial Area	M16/34	Reverse Circulation	1,000
Lynx Soil Anomaly	M16/34 & 115	Air Core	1,500
Alley Cat Trend	M16/34	Air Core	2,000
Extension of Lost Dog	E16/469	Air Core	3,800
Stockman’s Prospecting Licences	P16/2925 & 2926	Air Core	5,000

Additional exploration activities will follow based on the results from this initial programme.
